It is one of the sarcasms of fate that lawver and liar are written in exactly the same way in fast shorthand, and this stenographic peculiarity once gave rise to a curious incident in the Law Courls. A somewhat garrnlous witness said. ' My brother's a lawyer : so was my father, and my grandfather tooin fact, ours is a lawyer's stock altogether.' Soon after the shorthand writer was asked | Lucie- Why so?' Kennard- So that I to read his notes, and, amidst the rours of | might gain currency.' laughter of the Court, read, 'Yes; my brother's a liar; so was my father, and my grandfather too-in fact, ours is a liar stock altogether.' An American journal a few months ago made a rather curious statement with referenge to a ball held at the White House in Washington. Amongst the descriptions of the dresses worn by the ladies was the remarkable news that 'Mrs Brown wore nothing in the nature of a dress. That was thought so too, for she wrote an indignant letter to the editor of the paper in question asking him to retract the statement that she went to the ball in a state similar to Hans Breitman's ' Maidens mit nodings on.' But it was after all only a composing error. What the reporter had meant to say was, Mrs Brown were nothing in the nature of a

In a Western court, not long ago, a tiresome lawyer had been trying for more more than two hours to impress upon the just the facts of the case, as they appeared to him. At last he glanced at his watch. and turning to the judge, asked: 'Had we better adjourn for dinner, or shall keep right on?' 'Oh, you keep on, answered the judge; 'keep right on, and we will go to dinner.

IMPORTING IN THE BLOOD .- We have seen hosts of letters from people who have received great benefit from the use of Clarke's Blood Mixture. It cannot be too highly estimated, for it cleanses and clears the blood from all impurities.' This is a good testimonial from the Family Doctor, which goes on farther to say:

It is the finest Blood Purifier that science and skill have brought to light, and we can with the utmost confidence recommend it to our subscribers and the public generally.'
